WOMAN ESCAPES; MAN MISSING

Whereabouts of Asylum Patient Is Mystery to Police.

The whereabouts of Miss Rose Leonard, thirty-five years old, a patient at St. Elizabeth's, who disappeared from the institution Sunday afternoon, are still a mystery to the police and asylum authorities.

Miss Leonard had been a patient at the asylum on two occasions, and until her escape yesterday had been at the institution for two months. The police think she may go to friends living at 518 Columbia road. Her home is in Falls Church, Va.

Wife Fears for Husband Out of Employment.

The police are still looking for George M. Griffith, forty-five years old, of 1123 Ninth street northwest, who has been missing from his home since Thursday. Griffith is subject to heart disease, and his wife fears that he has had a fatal attack.

When Griffith left home he was out of employment. Mrs. Griffith said her husband was a man of good habits and that he stayed at home most of the time. He was a frequent visitor to the police station, and was last employed in the Interior Department.

STRIVING TO GET DONATIONS

Directors Hope to Keep the City
Playgrounds Open.

Five Thousand Dollars Must Be Subscribed by Saturday to Maintain Fields.

Unless its appeal to citizens of the District is heeded, and the public pocketbook opened to the tune of $5,000, the Washington Playground Association has decided it is necessary to close next Saturday these fields of recreation to the 5,000 youngsters who daily enjoy the games. This sum is needed for their maintenance during the fiscal year, and up to date only $1,500 has been subscribed.

The Columbia Citizens' Association has pledged $500, which will be turned over in a few days. Colored citizens of the Capital have arranged a benefit performance to be given at True Reformers' Hall this evening. Preceding the musical programme, basketball games will be played between the teams of Howard University and Howard Academy, and the Armstrong Manual Training School and the N. Street High School.

The United Order of True Reformers has volunteered to make the hall ready for the entertainment and will pay all expenses incidental to the benefit. The proceeds will be turned over immediately to the Playground Association. Those in charge of the affair are Thomas Johnson and W. S. Duffield.

The board of directors of the association will meet next Saturday to determine whether the responses for financial aid has been sufficient to warrant a further striving to obtain the needed funds. The following donations were received yesterday: Ralph W. Lee, $5; F. D. Head, $5; Gen. and Mrs. A. W. Greely, $1; Mrs. Ellen N. Warder, $10; Joseph Straubinger, $5; William D. West, $10; Thomas Grant, $5; Woodward & Lathrop, $50; Cuno H. Rudolph, $25; a friend, $2; Mrs. Hennen Jennings, $10; Miss Mary E. McCeney, $5; and Adolph Loeh, $2.

Death Due to Asphyxiation.
Coroner Neff yesterday issued a certificate of accidental asphyxiation in the case of James Dwyer, sixty-five years old, who was found dead in his room at 1104 Eighteenth street northwest, Sunday afternoon. Dwyer was the hostler of Gen. Nelson A. Miles, having been in his employ for years.

CAPTIVE IN CANADA

Italian Wanted Here on Grand Larceny Charge.

SOUGHT BY POLICE TWO YEARS

Detective Burr, of Washington, Arrests Fugitive in Ottawa, and Will Bring Him to Capital to Face Trial for Alleged Jewelry Theft—His Family Is Still Missing.

Fleeing before the officers of the law for nearly two years, escaping arrest a dozen times by mere accident, and dodging the police in big cities in this country and Canada, Ralph Racini, thirty-five years old, wanted by the Washington police on a charge of grand larceny, reached the end of his flight yesterday when Detective Frank Burr of this city, took him in custody in Ottawa, Canada, with the aid of the Canadian authorities.

After his prisoner was behind cell bars, Burr wired Maj. Sylvester, notifying the chief of police that the fugitive was under arrest and was fighting extradition. It is believed Racini will lose the legal battle, and the Washington police expect to see him in this city in a few days.

Made Cunning Escape.
Racini, who is also known by the aliases of Magill, Rock Magolda, and Rudolph Monoli, shows the genius of an experienced crook in his flight from detectives. The charge of grand larceny was preferred against him by Frederick Cole, of the jewelry firm of Cole & Swan, of Washington. It is alleged that on November 24, 1908, Racini stole jewelry valued at about $40 from the firm.

When the Italian disappeared his wife and three-year-old child also vanished. The whereabouts of the mother and child is unknown to the police. Racini has worked as a barber in some of the most prominent hostilities in the country. He is an expert at pool playing, and also has a reputation as a poker sharp.

The police describe him as an "all-around" good right with the ability to imitate a baby talking, a pastime frequently indulged in by the Italian for the amusement of friends.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau, Washington, Monday, Nov. 7, 1910—8 p. m.
A moderate disturbance that entered our Lower Michigan Monday night caused some snow flurries in the Lower Lake region. Rain was reported in the Pacific States southward into Southern California and eastward into Idaho, due to an energetic storm area that centered in Alberta and was spreading southward into the Missouri Valley. Fair weather was general elsewhere in the United States.

Considerably warmer weather was found in the Central Mississippi and in the Ohio valley, but preceding below freezing daily reports in the Upper Mississippi valley, but as a rule relatively mild conditions prevailed throughout the country. The Lake disturbance will cause some snow flurries in Michigan, Northern Ohio, Western and Northern New York, and Northern New England Tuesday. Some light rain and snow into the North Pacific States and in Idaho and Montana, but elsewhere in the United States the weather will continue fair during the next few hours.

It will be somewhat warmer in the Atlantic States Tuesday, but cooler weather will spread out of the Upper Mississippi Valley and Manitoba into the Lake region during the day. Mild weather will continue in the Central Mississippi Valley and the Pacific States.

Storm warnings are displayed on the Pacific Coast from Point Lobos northward.
The winds along the New England coast will be brisk west to south, on the Middle Atlantic coast moderate west to southwest; on the South Atlantic coast light variable; on the Gulf coast light variable; in the Lower Lakes brisk west to northwest; in the Upper Lakes moderate northwesterly, becoming variable.

Steamers departing Tuesday for European ports will have moderate to brisk westerly winds and generally fair weather to the Grand Banks.

DICKINSON RETURNS AFTER WORLD TOUR

Army Staff Turns Out to Greet Secretary of War.

Secretary of War Dickinson got back to Washington last night, after a trip around the world, lasting several months.

He was accompanied by Mrs. Dickinson, Brig. Gen. Clarence E. Edwards, Chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department, who was also a member of the party, did not return to Washington with the Secretary. Gen. Edwards left New York yesterday morning for Cleveland, Ohio, to visit his mother.

Secretary Dickinson will return to the United States as he is lighted from the Congressional Limited by Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, Chief of Staff; Maj. Gen. P. C. Ainsworth, the Adjutant General; Maj. Gen. William H. Carter, Assistant Chief of Staff; Brig. Gen. Charles H. Whipple, Paymaster General, and Paul Charlton, law officer of the Insular Bureau.

Secretary Dickinson will return to his desk in the War Department to-day. He will find a large accumulation of important questions awaiting his attention. One of these is the schedule of movements of troops and from the Philippine Islands.

Another matter is the proposed merger of the Philippine scouts and constabulary.

THREE NUNS NATURALIZED.

Take Oath of Allegiance Before District Supreme Court.

Chaperoned by Mgr. James Mackin and Mother Martin, three nuns of the Congregation of Perpetual Adoration appeared yesterday before Justice Barnard, of the District Supreme Court, and took the oath of allegiance to the United States, making them citizens of the republic.

The new citizens are Marie Kamp, of Holland; Racheleina Naresca, of Italy; and Severina Do Giovanni, of Sicily. They arrived in this country October 1, 1909, going immediately to the convent. Three months ago the sisters filed their applications at the house of John R. Young, clerk of the court, but it was necessary for them to appear in open court yesterday when they took the oath required by law.

An amusing incident occurred when Justice Barnard asked them if they believed in polygamy. As their vows forbade them to marry even once, the nuns could not give a broad smile at the routine question.

REFUSE INSURANCE PAYMENT.

Court Upholds Company on Grounds of Misrepresentation.

When applying for insurance, misrepresentation of one's physical condition is legal ground for refusing payment on the policy, according to a decision rendered yesterday by Justice Robb, of the Court of Appeals.

The court affirmed a verdict in favor of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, which was sued by Mary Griffith, as executrix of the estate of Mrs. Annie D. Burgoine. Misrepresentation of health in application for a policy was the ground for the suit.

JUDSON OUTLINES WORK OF DISTRICT

ing them, shall be supported and sustained in dealing with the many exceedingly perplexing problems which arise, wherein private interests often conflict with each other, or with the public interest.

"Economy is sought in every branch of our administration. Economy has been carried to a point where some allege that parsimony is found. Nevertheless, we believe that every proper municipal function should be performed at least as thoroughly here as in any other American city, and we seek to provide generously for every purpose that will in the end either promote economies or obtain permanent results that will improve Washington and make it a more suitable Capital City.

Check on Extravagance.

"In the District of Columbia, where the taxes are levied at a rate definitely fixed by law and where the United States is so large a contributor, it would be expecting too much of human nature to assume that there would exist a certain check on extravagance that is always at work in other cities, where the taxpayers know that in the long run their taxes must equal the sum of all expenditures, plus interest charges if loans be resorted to. Now, extravagance is not only unethical and unwise in the general case, but here, with us, its practice would but delay the day when Washington will be a complete and admirable city, properly performing its functions as the National Capital.

"In other words, we practice economy, not as a hoarding process, nor in pursuance of a picaresque policy, but so that we may the more quickly secure the accomplishment of the many great and expensive improvements that cry out to be done.

"We emphasize the Federal interest in Washington not only when we are seeking to raise money, but when we are expending it, and we feel bound to do this as it is by reason of the Federal interest here that the Federal government is the largest contributor to our revenues. Moreover, we are convinced that in the long run the body of taxpayers will find that their interest runs parallel with the Federal interest. If this city grows and prospers, it will be because it is wisely managed as a Capital City.

"If taxes are indeed collected on agricultural land that seem out of proportion to direct benefits received, the owners should consider the fact upon their part of the beautiful Capital City growing up so near them, always extending toward them and finally embracing them. This land, indeed, is probably increasing in value much more rapidly than is the land in the older portions of the city, where the direct benefits of expenditures are more apparent. It would simply be untrue to hold that agricultural land is unfairly taxed unless it receives direct benefits in advance of the needs of the population, when, in fact, it is very much benefited by expenditures made elsewhere.

Many Views Differ.

"We appreciate that our views of municipal direction may not be popular with all. Some are more interested in local schemes than in the general welfare, and some are more interested in an immediate realization of personal profit than in orderly progress toward a proper and admirable Capital City. Some will oppose because in no other way can they trust themselves before their fellow-citizens; some will be paid to oppose because their employers think thus to serve their own special interests; some will oppose through inability to head the problem before the Commissioners, and finally some will fail to believe that we are in fact actuated by the motives we claim to possess. Time only and observation can convince these last.

"The other view, in which all other communities must endure with patience and treat without discrimination. It will be enough for the Commissioners if they have the undemonstrative support of the great body of thoughtful and intelligent citizens, and the approval of the President who appoints us and of the Congress to which the Constitution commits the government of the Federal District."

Thanks Maj. Judson.

Maj. Judson was introduced by Alphon Parris, president of the association, who called attention to the fact that the position of Engineer Commissioner was never sought, and was one of the hardest to fill, in a competent manner, of any office in the District government.

After the speaking the members were presented to the guest of honor. The major was surfeited with luscious oysters and Georgetown's most delicious eatables. In addition he was given a rising vote of thanks, for the consensus of opinion was "that he knew more about little old Georgetown and its needs than we ever dreamed of."

As a kind of an afterthought to the principal speech, Col. Henry Blount pleaded that the proposed name of Montrose for the proposed Georgetown park be changed to Howard Payne Park, in honor of the author of "Home, Sweet Home," whose body is buried there.

CITIZENS TO DRAFT UTILITIES MEASURE

Bill Will Be Presented by District Committees.

President W. McK. Clayton, of the Federation of Citizens' Associations, yesterday named a committee to draft a public utilities commission measure to be presented to Congress.

The following members of the federation compose the committee: Glenn Brown, of the Washington Society of Fine Arts; George F. Williams, of the Brightwood Park Citizens' Association; Allan Davis, of the Southeast Association; W. N. Cromwell, of Potomac; J. G. McGrath, of Park View; C. C. Lang, of the Northwest Suburban Association; L. H. Patterson, of the Northeast Suburban Association; J. Rush Marshall, of the American Institute of Architects; D. A. Edwards, of the Lincoln Park Citizens' Association; and J. W. Dyre, of the Takoma Park Citizens' Association.

A meeting of the committee will be called this week, when plans for drafting the proposed bill will be made. It is thought President Taft will recommend the creation of such a commission in his message to Congress. Should this be the case, the federation will endeavor to have the bill introduced by Representative Smith, of the House District Committee, and Senator Gallagher, of the Senate District Committee.

Fined for Pilfering Milk.
